

of human aspiration as unattainable. To hold these in continuing tension, as Shinn does, is simply seldom accomplished. Those who can will garner the most benefit from the last one-third of the book. But those who are idealist alone will, honestly facing war, become permanently disillusioned. And those who are realist alone will become lastingly cynical. And each will, reading the book, misreport badly, and be able really to understand but half of Shinn's ethics.

A non-concluding, but final note. There is irresolution in Shinn's ethics. "Integrity" and "conscience" are precious words to him. He comes very close to saying that what counts above all for moral belief is that it be "truly held," that it be a matter of intense convictions. There are problems with that. For the content of one's conscience and convictions, and that in which one finds one's integrity, might well be grossly immoral. (Pascal in the wings: "Evil is never perpetrated so thoroughly as when it is perpetrated in good conscience.") Shinn knows this too, and is not about to say that sincerity of moral belief alone creates or assures its rightness. He knows that consequences matter immensely and that the sheer intensity of convictions is not a measure of their goodness. On the one hand, then, "to thyself be true" is a moral imperative for Shinn (so he has always vigorously supported the authentic co's); on the other hand, he knows the importance of political judgment and the truth of the utilitarian calculus, the criterion of responsible, even if guilt-incurring, outcome (so he vigorously disagreed with his pacifist friends in 1941 and enlisted). Can he have it both ways? Probably not without a certain high-level irresolution. I suspect Shinn would argue that something humanly essential would be lost if this particular irresolution were "resolved." And I suspect he's right. But it sure leaves life a risk.

Larry Rasmussen
Wesley Theological Seminary
Washington, D.C.

DIALOG INDEX VOLUME 11 CONTRIBUTORS

- Benne, Bob, Poles & Poles, p. 246.
Benson, John E., Sliced Open for Everyone to See, p. 168.
Braaten, Carl E., A Lutheran View of the Catholic Dialog with Luther, p. 299.
——, Ambiguity and Hope in the Ecumenical Movement, p. 209.
——, Churches of the Reformation Unite!, p. 11.
——, Colliding of Eschatology and Establishment, p. 18.
——, Dialog After Ten Years, p. 4.
——, Future Is Not What It Used To Be, The, p. 5.
——, Garbage In, Garbage Out!, p. 250.
——, How Christian Is the New Ethnicity?, p. 166.
——, Infallibility—Where It's At, p. 8.
——, Jesus and the Jesus Freaks, p. 84.
——, On Getting Keyed Up for Key 73, p. 248.
——, On Leaving America, p. 245.
Brittain, Virginia J., While Katy Did the Dishes, p. 222.
Burtress, James H., Who Cares About Theology Now?, p. 23.
Crouter, Richard E., Harnack as Ecumenist, p. 296.
Dahl, Gordon, Leisure Means Freedom, p. 281.
Halvorson, Loren, From the Critical Edge to the Constructive Center, p. 30.
Harrisville, Roy A., What Goes Without Saying, p. 34.
Hefner, Philip, High Cost of Deep Truths, The, p. 244.
Hiers, Richard, Historical Jesus and the Historians, The, p. 95.
Irwin, Keith W., Toward a Phenomenology of Death, p. 177.
Jenson, Richard, Bob Dylan: Pied Piper of a Generation, p. 202.
Jenson, Robert W., About Dialog and the Church and Some Bits of the Theological Biography of Robert W. Jenson, p. 38.
——, LCA, Centralization, Gospel Authority, and the Lutheran Clergy Association, The, p. 89.
——, Once More: The Jesus of History and the Christ of Faith, p. 118.
——, On Consulting in Geneva, Nox. 18-20, p. 14.
——, Plot Not to Kidnap Kissinger, The, p. 88.
——, Preus' Statement: Its Heresy and Foolishness, p. 64.
Jeske, Richard, An Ecumenical Witness in Kansas City, p. 86.
——, Wisdom and the Future in the Teachings of Jesus, p. 108.
Kildegaard, Axel C., Impressions from a Parish Sabbatical, p. 53.
Kingsbury, Jack Dean, Parables of Jesus in Current Research, The, p. 101.
Knudsen, Johannes, Function and Structure in the Light of the Gospel and History, p. 216.
Longwood, Merle, Ethical Reflections on the Meaning of Death, p. 195.
Lønning, Bishop Per, Bishop Per Lønning's Presentation of Vietnam at the Ecumenical Witness Conference in Kansas City Jan. 13-16, 1972, p. 142.
Marty, Martin E., After Ten Years: Observations and Reflections, p. 43.
McGovern, George, Political Participation—A Christian View, p. 258.
Michel, Walter L., Death in Job, p. 183.
Olsen, Arthur L., After Ten Years: Dialog's Self-Dialogue about its Future, p. 15.
Pannenberg, Wolfhart, A Theological Conversation with Wolfhart Pannenberg, p. 286.
Parvey, Constance F., Abortion, p. 304.
Quinn, Gary P., Pacifism and the Just War: Are They Compatible?, p. 273.
Rasmussen, Larry, Daniel Berrigan and Dietrich Bonhoeffer: Parallels and Contrasts in Resistance, p. 264.
Rochelle, Jay C., Ten Years After—A Different Perspective, p. 227.
Ruether, Rosemary Radford, On Women's Lib, p. 225.
——, Outlines for a Theology of Liberation, p. 252.
Saffen, Wayne, Voice is Jacob's; But the Hands Are Esau's, The, p. 144.
Scharlemann, Robert P., Resurrection as Technique?, p. 85.
——, Some Reflections on the Past and Future of Dialog, p. 46.
Scharlemann, Telling a Forked Tale, p. 86.
Schroeder, Edward H., Encountering the Last Enemy, p. 190.
Sherman, Franklin, Brinkmanship Revisited, p. 167.

of human aspiration as unattainable. To hold these in continuing tension, as Shinn does, is simply seldom accomplished. Those who can will garner the most benefit from the last one-third of the book. But those who are idealist alone will, honestly facing war, become permanently disillusioned. And those who are realist alone will become lastingly cynical. And each will, reading the book, misreport badly, and be able really to understand but half of Shinn's ethics.

A non-concluding, but final note. There is irresolution in Shinn's ethics. "Integrity" and "conscience" are precious words to him. He comes very close to saying that what counts above all for moral belief is that it be "truly held," that it be a matter of intense convictions. There are problems with that. For the content of one's conscience and convictions, and that in which one finds one's integrity, might well be grossly immoral. (Pascal in the wings: "Evil is never perpetrated so thoroughly as when it is perpetrated in good conscience.") Shinn knows this too, and is not about to say that sincerity of moral belief alone creates or assures its rightness. He knows that consequences matter immensely and that the sheer intensity of convictions is not a measure of their goodness. On the one hand, then, "to thyself be true" is a moral imperative for Shinn (so he has always vigorously supported the authentic co's); on the other hand, he knows the importance of political judgment and the truth of the utilitarian calculus, the criterion of responsible, even if guilt-incurring, outcome (so he vigorously disagreed with his pacifist friends in 1941 and enlisted). Can he have it both ways? Probably not without a certain high-level irresolution. I suspect Shinn would argue that something humanly essential would be lost if this particular irresolution were "resolved." And I suspect he's right. But it sure leaves life a risk.

Larry Rasmussen
Wesley Theological Seminary
Washington, D.C.

DIALOG INDEX VOLUME 11 CONTRIBUTORS

- Benne, Bob, Poles & Poles, p. 246.
Benson, John E., Sliced Open for Everyone to See, p. 168.
Braaten, Carl E., A Lutheran View of the Catholic Dialog with Luther, p. 299.
——, Ambiguity and Hope in the Ecumenical Movement, p. 209.
——, Churches of the Reformation Unite!, p. 11.
——, Colliding of Eschatology and Establishment, p. 18.
——, Dialog After Ten Years, p. 4.
——, Future Is Not What It Used To Be, The, p. 5.
——, Garbage In, Garbage Out!, p. 250.
——, How Christian Is the New Ethnicity?, p. 166.
——, Infallibility—Where It's At, p. 8.
——, Jesus and the Jesus Freaks, p. 84.
——, On Getting Keyed Up for Key 73, p. 248.
——, On Leaving America, p. 245.
Brittain, Virginia J., While Katy Did the Dishes, p. 222.
Burtress, James H., Who Cares About Theology Now?, p. 23.
Crouter, Richard E., Harnack as Ecumenist, p. 296.
Dahl, Gordon, Leisure Means Freedom, p. 281.
Halvorson, Loren, From the Critical Edge to the Constructive Center, p. 30.
Harrisville, Roy A., What Goes Without Saying, p. 34.
Hefner, Philip, High Cost of Deep Truths, The, p. 244.
Hiers, Richard, Historical Jesus and the Historians, The, p. 95.
Irwin, Keith W., Toward a Phenomenology of Death, p. 177.
Jenson, Richard, Bob Dylan: Pied Piper of a Generation, p. 202.
Jenson, Robert W., About Dialog and the Church and Some Bits of the Theological Biography of Robert W. Jenson, p. 38.
——, LCA, Centralization, Gospel Authority, and the Lutheran Clergy Association, The, p. 89.
——, Once More: The Jesus of History and the Christ of Faith, p. 118.
——, On Consulting in Geneva, Nox. 18-20, p. 14.
——, Plot Not to Kidnap Kissinger, The, p. 88.
——, Preus' Statement: Its Heresy and Foolishness, p. 64.
Jeske, Richard, An Ecumenical Witness in Kansas City, p. 86.
——, Wisdom and the Future in the Teachings of Jesus, p. 108.
Kildegaard, Axel C., Impressions from a Parish Sabbatical, p. 53.
Kingsbury, Jack Dean, Parables of Jesus in Current Research, The, p. 101.
Knudsen, Johannes, Function and Structure in the Light of the Gospel and History, p. 216.
Longwood, Merle, Ethical Reflections on the Meaning of Death, p. 195.
Lønning, Bishop Per, Bishop Per Lønning's Presentation of Vietnam at the Ecumenical Witness Conference in Kansas City Jan. 13-16, 1972, p. 142.
Marty, Martin E., After Ten Years: Observations and Reflections, p. 43.
McGovern, George, Political Participation—A Christian View, p. 258.
Michel, Walter L., Death in Job, p. 183.
Olsen, Arthur L., After Ten Years: Dialog's Self-Dialogue about its Future, p. 15.
Pannenberg, Wolfhart, A Theological Conversation with Wolfhart Pannenberg, p. 286.
Parvey, Constance F., Abortion, p. 304.
Quinn, Gary P., Pacifism and the Just War: Are They Compatible?, p. 273.
Rasmussen, Larry, Daniel Berrigan and Dietrich Bonhoeffer: Parallels and Contrasts in Resistance, p. 264.
Rochelle, Jay C., Ten Years After—A Different Perspective, p. 227.
Ruether, Rosemary Radford, On Women's Lib, p. 225.
——, Outlines for a Theology of Liberation, p. 252.
Saffen, Wayne, Voice is Jacob's; But the Hands Are Esau's, The, p. 144.
Scharlemann, Robert P., Resurrection as Technique?, p. 85.
——, Some Reflections on the Past and Future of Dialog, p. 46.
Scharlemann, Telling a Forked Tale, p. 86.
Schroeder, Edward H., Encountering the Last Enemy, p. 190.
Sherman, Franklin, Brinkmanship Revisited, p. 167.

- , Unfinished Agenda for Jewish-Christian Dialogue, p. 10.
 —, Super-Congress at Los Angeles, p. 249.
 Sherer, James A., Nixon's Gamble, p. 12.
 Simonson, Conrad, Effect of the Moon on Christology, p. 133.
 —, Key 73, p. 307.
 Streiker, Lowell D., Advent of the Jesus Freaks, p. 90.
 Swanson, Paul R., Some Considerations on Death and Dying, p. 170.
 Thomsen, Mark, Lordship of Jesus and Theological Pluralism, p. 125.
 Wolf, C. Umhau, Do Pastors Trust Their Synod Presidents?, p. 61.

EDITORIALS

- Brinkmanship Revisited, by Franklin Sherman, p. 167.
 Churches of the Reformation Unite!, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 11.
 Daniel Berrigan and Dietrich Bonhoeffer: Parallels and Contrasts in Resistance, by Larry Rasmussen, p. 264.
 Dialog After Ten Years, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 4.
 Ecumenical Witness in Kansas City, An, by Richard Jeske, p. 86.
 Future Is Not What It Used To Be, The, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 5.
 Garbage In, Garbage Out!, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 250.
 High Cost of Deep Truths, The, by Philip Hefner, p. 244.
 How Christian Is the New Ethnicity?, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 166.
 Infallibility—Where It's At, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 8.
 Jesus and the Jesus Freaks, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 84.
 LCA, Centralization, Gospel Authority and the Lutheran Clergy Association, by Robert W. Jenson, p. 89.
 Nixon's Gamble, by James A. Sherer, p. 12.
 On Consulting in Geneva, Nov. 18-20, by Robert W. Jenson, p. 14.
 On Getting Keyed Up for Key 73, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 248.
 On Leaving America, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 245.
 Plot Not to Kidnap Kissinger, The, by Robert W. Jenson, p. 88.
 Poles and Poles, by Bob Benne, p. 246.
 Preus' Statement: Its Heresy and Foolishness, by Robert W. Jenson, p. 164.
 Resurrection as Technique?, by Robert P. Schlaremann, p. 85.

"BE YE RECONCILED..."

James Y. Holloway & Will D. Campbell,
Editors

THE FAILURE AND THE HOPE

Essays of Southern Churchmen

"Our failure," editors Campbell and Holloway believe, "is that we have sought to be relevant to political and social processes when we should have been challenging these very processes by 'the politics of God.'" And their hope: as St. Paul puts it, "When anyone is united to Christ, there is a new world; the old order has gone and a new order has already begun."

This conviction unites these seventeen eloquent and challenging essays on racism, violence, poverty, and social alienation, reprinted from Katallagete. Though the writers are all southerners, they see their failures and their hope as common to Christians everywhere; and they have a simple message: "Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God." 2 Cor. 5:20.

"This volume brings the reader face to face with just where we are in the struggle for racial justice. It consists of penetrating and provocative essays by persons who write out of their own struggles with racism. These people not only 'tell it like it is,' but also 'tell it like it ought to be.'"

—Henlee Barnette, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary
224 pages. Paper, $3.45

THE POLITICS OF JESUS

by John Howard Yoder

Is there a coherent and relevant theological approach to the fundamental issues of social ethics? Most theological traditions have rejected such an approach.

John Howard Yoder, on the other hand, shows how the teachings and ministry of Jesus cope directly with the issues of social ethics and, in fact, have a tremendous impact on society. Nowhere is this more in evidence than in how the apostolic community reflected the social and political ethics of Jesus. Yoder bases his presentation upon a careful study of the Gospel text, especially Luke's.

"A book of supreme importance . . . skillful, learned and courageous . . . invites and urges the reader to reconsider and revise his prejudices, to make new decisions, and to take a bold stand."

—Markus Barth, Pittsburgh Theological Seminary
176 pages. Paper, $3.45

WM. B. EERDMANS PUBLISHING CO. Grand Rapids, Michigan 49502

- Sliced Open For Everyone to See, by John E. Benson, p. 168.
 Super-Congress at Lost Angeles, by Franklin Sherman, p. 249.
 Telling a Forked Tale, by Robert P. Schlaremann, p. 86.
 Unfinished Agenda for Jewish-Christian Dialogue, by Franklin Sherman, p. 10.

ARTICLES

- About Dialog, and the Church, and Some Bits of the Theological Biography of Robert W. Jenson, by Robert W. Jenson, p. 38.
 Advent of the Jesus Freaks, by Lowell D. Streiker, p. 90.
 After Ten Years: Dialog's Self-Dialogue About Its Future, by Arthur L. Olsen, p. 15.
 After Ten Years: Observations and Reflections, by Martin E. Marty, p. 43.
 Bob Dylan: Pied Piper of a Generation, by Richard Jenson, p. 202.
 Colliding of Eschatology and Establishment, The, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 18.
 Death in Job, by Walter L. Michel, p. 183.
 Effect of the Moon on Christology, The, by Conrad Simonson, p. 133.
 Encountering the Last Enemy, by Edward H. Schroeder, p. 190.
 Ethical Reflections on the Meaning of Death, by Merle Longwood, p. 195.
 From Critical Edge to Constructive Center, by Loren Halvorson, p. 30.
 Historical Jesus and the Historians, The, by Richard Hiers, p. 95.
 Leisure Means Freedom, by Gordon Dahl, p. 281.
 Lordship of Jesus and Theological Pluralism, The, by Mark Thomsen, p. 125.
 Once More: The Jesus of History and the Christ of Faith, by Robert W. Jenson, p. 118.
 Outlines for a Theology of Liberation, by Rosemary Radford Ruether, p. 252.
 Pacifism and the Just War: Are They Compatible?, by Gary J. Quinn, p. 273.
 Parables of Jesus in Current Research, The, by Jack Dean Kingsbury, p. 101.
 Political Participation—A Christian View, by George McGovern, p. 258.
 Some Considerations on Death and Dying, by Paul R. Swanson, p. 170.
 Some Reflections on the Past and Future of Dialog, by Robert P. Schlaremann, p. 46.
 Theological Conversation with Wolfhart Pannenberg, A, by Wolfhart Pannenberg, p. 286.
 Toward a Phenomenology of Death, by Keith W. Irwin, p. 177.
 What Goes Without Saying, by Roy A. Harrisville, p. 34.
 Who Cares About Theology Now?, by James H. Burtneiss, p. 23.

- Wisdom and the Future in the Teachings of Jesus, by Richard Jeske, p. 108.

VIEWS AND COUNTERVIEWS

- Abortion, by Constance F. Parvey, p. 304.
 Do Pastors Trust Their Synod Presidents?, by C. Umhau Wolf, p. 61.
 Impressions from a Parish Sabbatical, by Axel C. Kildegaard, p. 53.
 Key 73, by Conrad Simonson, p. 307.
 On Women's Lib, by Rosemary Radford Ruether, p. 225.
 Ten Years After—A Different Perspective, by Jay C. Rochelle, p. 227.
 Voice Is Jacob's; But the Hands Are Essau's, The, by Wayne Saffen, p. 144.
 While Kathy Did the Dishes, by Virginia J. Brittain, p. 222.

ECUMENICAL PERSPECTIVES

- Agreement Among Reformation Churches in Europe, p. 48.
 Ambiguity and Hope in the Ecumenical Movement, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 209.
 Bishop Per Lønning's Presentation on Vietnam at the Ecumenical Witness Conference in Kansas City, Jan. 13-16, 1972, by Bishop Per Lønning, p. 142.
 Function and Structure in the Light of the Gospel and History, by Johannes Knudsen, p. 216.
 Harnack as Ecumenist, by Richard E. Crouter, p. 296.
 Lutheran View of the Catholic Dialog with Luther, A, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 299.

CRITICISM OF CURRENT LITERATURE

- Brother Earth: Nature, God & Ecology in Time of Crisis, by H. Paul Santmire, p. 64.
 Christ and Counter-Christ: Apocalyptic Themes in Theology and Culture, by Carl E. Braaten, p. 310.
 Colossians and Philemon, by Edward Lohse, ed. by Helmut Koester, trans. by William R. Poehlmann and Robert J. Karris (Hermeneia: A Critical and Historical Commentary on the Bible), p. 316.

- Communion of the Christian With God, The, by Wilhelm Hermann, ed. by Robert T. Voelkel, trans. by J. Sandys Stanyon, p. 308.
 Decline and Fall of Radical Catholicism, The, by James Hitchcock, p. 61.
 Encounter with Israel: A Challenge to Conscience, by Alice and Roy Eckardt, p. 152.
 Ethical Demand, The, by Knud E. Logstrup, trans. by Theodore I. Jensen, p. 69.
 Future for the Historical Jesus: The Place of Jesus in Preaching and Theology, A, by Leader E. Keck, p. 74.
 Hope and Planning, by Jürgen Moltmann, trans. by Margaret Clarkson, p. 312.
 Jesus and the Revolutionaries, by Oscar Cullmann, trans. by Gareth Putnam, p. 153.
 Jesus on Social Institutions, by Shailer Matthews, ed. by Kenneth Cauthen, p. 308.
 Jesus' Preaching on the Kingdom of God, by Johannes Weiss, ed. & trans. by Richard H. Hiers & D. Larrimore Holland, p. 308.
 Jesus Rediscovered, by Malcolm Muggeridge, p. 147.
 Jesus—Word and Presence. An Essay in Christology, by Peter C. Hodgson, p. 147.
 Lutheranism in North America, by E. Clifford Nelson, p. 318.
 Messianic Idea in Judaism and Other Essays on Jewish Spirituality, The, by Gershom Scholem, p. 314.
 Miracles in Dispute: A Continuing Debate, by Ernest & Marie-Luise Keller, trans. by Margaret Kohl, p. 313.
 Myth of Christian Beginings, The, by Robert L. Wilken, p. 70.
 Patient as Person, The, by Paul Ramsey, p. 67.
 Perspective on Paul, by Ernest Käsemann, trans. by Margaret Kohl, p. 148.
 Reimarus: Fragments, ed. by Charles H. Talbert, trans. by Ralph S. Fraser, p. 308.
 Resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth, The, by Willi Marxsen, trans. by Margaret Kohl, p. 73.
 Sayings of Jesus in the Churches of Paul, The, The Use of the Synoptic Tradition in the Regulation of Early Church Life., by David L. Dungan, p. 150.
 Symbolic Language of Religion, The, by Thomas Fawcett, p. 66.
 Was Jesus a Revolutionist?, by Martin Hengel, trans. by William Klassen, p. 153.

